Hometown

I was born and raised in a nondescript small town by the name of Gurdaspur, in the northern Indian state of Punjab. I moved out of my city at the age of 14, and since then have lived across different cities for my education.

Hobbies

I am an interior design enthusiast with a special interest in ceramics.

What is something that would surprise people about you?

I come across as pretty unassuming. People are usually surprised to find out that I have a strong personality and varied interests, especially in politics. It is funny that some of my patients at the University of Minnesota start to speak to me in Spanish, thinking that I am from one of the Central or South American countries, and are surprised to know that I am Indian.

What brought you to the School of Dentistry?

Attending the DDS program for internationally-trained dentists.

What do you do in your free time?

I love to explore the local culture and restaurants. I also like to read books of different genres.

What are you most proud of?

I am proud of the fact that I enjoy both the good and bad experiences. My core values are strong and deeply-rooted, and they have not changed.
